~~When a photon~~

Every atom or molecule that take place in chemical reactions absorbs one quantum of the radiation to which the substance is exposed.

If ν of the frequency & of the quantum radiation, then the energy absorbed by each reacting molecule or atom is one quantum of $h\nu$ where h is Planck's constant. The energy absorbed by one mole of reacting $e = \frac{h \cdot c}{\lambda}$ where we can write $E = \frac{N h c}{\lambda}$ where 'c' is the velocity of the light & λ is the wavelength of the absorbed radiations.

$$N = 6.02 \times 10^{23} \text{ mol}^{-1}$$

$$h = 6.626 \times 10^{-27} \text{ erg sec.}$$

$$c = 3.0 \times 10^{10} \text{ cm/sec.}$$

$$E = \frac{2.86 \times 10^3}{\lambda} \text{ cal mol}^{-1}$$

In this equation λ is expressed in cm. usually expressed in angstrom units (\AA) we know that:

$$E = \frac{2.86 \times 10^3}{\lambda} \text{ cal mol}^{-1}$$

Putting $10^3 \text{ cal} = 1 \text{ kcal}$ in the above equation.

$$E = \frac{2.86}{\lambda} \text{ kcal mol}^{-1}$$

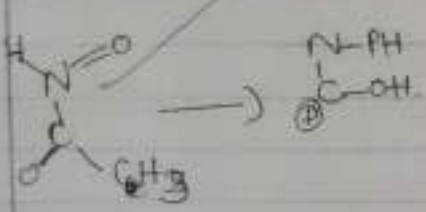

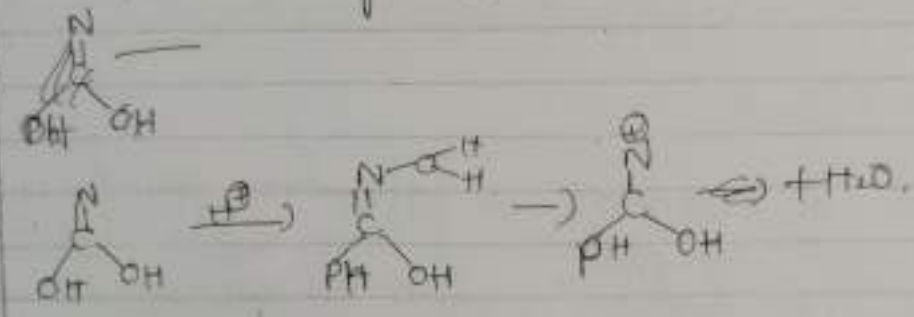

This equation gives the energy possessed by one mole of the photons and is called as einstein. $E = \frac{2.86}{\lambda} \text{ kcal mol}^{-1}$

3) (Ans) When a photochemical reaction takes place & the light is absorbed. However there are certain reactions in which light is produced. The emission of the light in the reaction at the ordinary temperature is called as chemiluminescence. Thus chemiluminescence is just a reverse of photochemical reaction.

The light emitting by the worms is due to the oxidation of the protein Luciferin is present in the glow worms.

Q2. Heterotopy.

→ Heterotopy is defined as the change in location of gene expression where a transcription factor is expressed.

Examples.

1. How Bats got their wings.

Bats have evolved their forelimbs into wings by change in developmental process. They retain their interdigital webbing in the same way how ducks retain their webbing in embryos, by blocking BMP's which leads the cells to undergo apoptosis.

Both Wnt & Fgf signalling will block the BMP's so they don't induce apoptosis.

Fgf's will maintain the cell present in the interdigital webbing unlike other mammals.

2. How snakes lost their limbs

Embryological & evolutionary evidence has shown that snakes lost their forelimbs first then hindlimbs.

Forelimbs.

The anterior region of snakes have HOXC6 but the HOXC8 is absent in those region.

HOXC6 & HOXC8 in combination forms forelimbs. As there is no HOXC8 the snakes lost their forelimbs.

In the later length of snakes both genes are present so they form ribs along the vertebrae.

Hindlimb

Shh forms the hindlimb but its expression is low so some snakes like python develop only femur and many did not develop any hindlimb. Shh is required for AER so its expression is low AER is absent in limb bud or not maintained.

Q4 → Heterochrony
Heterochrony is defined as change in the time of gene expression.

Example

1. Marsupials

Marsupials develop their mouth & forelimb faster than other placental mammals.

This will help them to climb in maternal pouch and to suckle or to feed.

2. Ribs of snakes

Snakes have developed ribs throughout the length of their body, some species have more than 500 ribs.

This is due to the expression of HOXC6 & HOXC9 together which forms ribs.

3. Flippers of dolphins -

The elongated fingers of the dolphin's flipper is due to expression of ~~fgf~~ FGFs.

How long the FGFs is expressed the longer will be the fingers of the flipper.

If expressed for short time, shorter will be the fingers of

Q1. Application of Developmental Biology

- 1. In the study of Embryos: - Embryogenesis is study from verified the study of developmental biology. In ~~an~~ old time embryology was not much believed in. But after Aristotle this study has opened ~~was~~ wide fields of how defects happen in embryos, causes, reasons behind it, apart from it how embryo is actually formed.
2. In genetics: Genetically & developmental aspects are quite interlinked to some extent. Mendel came up with genetics. This field helped in developmental region in phenotypic & genotypic study. So the application of developmental biology is also seen in genetics & vice versa. Even the genes that are involved in development is also studied.
3. Cell divisions & growth: - Developmental biology is applicable also in this aspects where how cell theory occurred and how cell divide ~~was~~ known. This by studying its development.

Answers

Q6. Mechanism regulating developmental process.

- 1. Reproduction: - Formation of Zygote.
2. Growth: - To control cell division.
3. Evolution: - Changes occurring in the developmental process.
4. Genetics: - The study of genes which regulate & enhance the development of organism.
5. Cell Environmental factors: - The external factors also regulate the developmental processes, for example how temperature effects the colour of butterfly wings.

- 6. Morphogenesis - Morphogenesis is also a quite developmental processes in which the fate of organs development is decided and development happens only depending on that fate itself.
- 7. Differentiation - Differentiation is division of cells ~~over~~ not even a single extra division cycle doesn't take place in developmental process.

Q1 Heterotype

Heterotype is change in the protein loading sequence. Changes of heterotype affects the actual coding sequence of gene thus the functional properties of proteins being synthesized is changed.

Ex - Why insects have only six legs?

In other arthropods ultrabithorax protein does not repress the distal less genes. Hence they have more than six legs

- In insects due to mutation in Ubx protein the normal 3' end coding region is replaced by a group of 40 nucleotide sequence of 10 alanine.

- This polyalanine region will inhibit or suppress the distal less gene.

- Hence insects have only six legs.

Q3 Syncytium blastoderm

→ The developmental stage in which the blastoderm have many nuclei in the form of ^{cluster} group or mass. Such syncytial mass in the blastoderm is called syncytium blastoderm

Q4 Maternal effect genes in drosophila

→ ~~Muschback and bicoid.~~

Bicoid & ~~nanos~~ ^{nanos}

Nanos & Caudal

IQAC Co-ordinator
GSS College, Belagavi

Bicoid & hunchback are restricted towards anterior region and forms anterior structures.

Nanos & caudal are restricted towards posterior region & forms posterior structures.

Q5. Antennapedia mutation.

→ Antennapedia is a homeotic selector gene.

It is located on the first region of 3 chromosomes of Drosophila called Antennapedia region.

Antennapedia gene gives specification of 2nd thoracic segment.

When there is mutation in this gene, legs develop in the head region instead of antenna. A pair of legs developed on the head of the organism.

Answers.

Q6. Homologous genetic pathways of development.

→ Homologous genetic pathway forms the basic basic infrastructure of development. But the target of the pathway is however different among organisms. For example

The dorsal-cactus pathway used in Drosophila to specify dorsal ventral polarity, the same pathway is used in mammalian immune system to articulate inflammatory response.

But this does not mean that Drosophila is homologous to human macrophages.

It only gives an idea of ancient prediction layout of development.

* Anterior posterior polarity
chick limb

Insect wing

This figure shows the normal development where Shh is expressed in posterior region in both chick (vertebrate) & Insect wing.

Even though the wings of insect is made of chitin & limbs of vertebrates are made of bony endoskeleton. The laying down is somewhat closely related.

When the Shh is induced near in anterior region of both chick limb & Insect wing, a duplication of structure were seen.

Duplication of limb & wing.

* Dorsal ventral polarity.

Chick limb

Insect wing

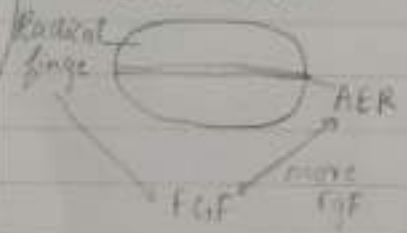

In limb of vertebrate dorsal region is expressed by engrailed gene while the ventral region is expressed by lmx1.

In insect wing also the ventral region is expressed by engrailed whereas dorsal region by Apterous.

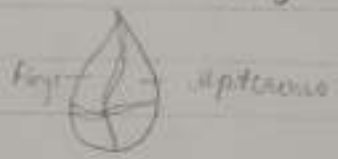

* Proximal distal axis.

Chick limb

Insect wing

In chick limb the ventral cell & dorsal cell is separated by AER.

The dorsal region has radial fringe which along FGF extends the limb out whereas AER secretes more FGF.

In insect wing the dorsal cell & ventral cell is separated by wing margin. Here the fringe with Apterous extend out the wing.

Q.8. Neurogenesis

→ Neurogenesis is the development of new neurons by neural stem cells. Neurogenesis takes place in embryos where all the neurons are formed. In adults mitosis of most of the neuron does not take place. This neuron lives till the organism exist.

Goodman and Doe in 1997 gave eight steps of neurogenesis.

1. Induction and patterning pattern formation of specific neuron region.
2. Birth and migration of neuron and glia.
3. Guidance of axonal growth cones towards specification & differentiation.
4. Formation of synaptic connections.
5. Taking Throphic region to the target site.
6. Competitive rearrangement of synapses.
7. Continued synaptic plasticity throughout organism life.
